q. how to reset the printhead?

a1. to reset a printhead you will need a pin of the appropriate length and this is found on the back of the printhead. take note of the colour and type of the pin, then use the following procedure to reset the printhead.

a2. step 1: unscrew the printhead.

a3. step 2: hold the pin firmly between the thumb and middle finger. ensure its pointed in the direction the ink will be flowing.

a4. step 3: slide the pin into the centre of the printhead and rotate it clockwise until it feels firm.

a5. step 4: repeat steps 2 and 3 with the pin parallel to the printhead body.

a6. step 5: once you have replaced the printhead, simply pull the pin out of the printhead and discard it.

a7. step 6: repeat steps 1 to 5 for the other printhead.

q. can you reset the usb port on my print server?

a1. if your print server is in a stand alone mode, you will need to contact your print server manufacturer for the port reset procedure. it is usually found under the label 'setup' or 'firmware'.

a2. if your print server is in a networked mode, the procedure is similar to the one mentioned above. however, you will need the ports ip address and username and password as mentioned by your print server's manufacturer.
